VOLUME CIX.--NO. 77. ALEXANDRIA, VA., MONDAY EVENING, MARCH 30, 1908. PRICE 2 CENTS

The Story of a Medicine.

Its name—"Golden Medical Discovery" was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients — Golden Seal root.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, aided by a certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, so generally employed. So the now world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery," for the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness and kindred derangements was first made, as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its make-up.

A glance at the full list of its ingredients, printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the strongest endorsement from the leading medical experts, teachers and writers on Materia Medica who recommend them as the very best remedies for the diseases for which "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised.

A little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking same by postal card, or letter addressed to the Doctor as above. From these endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned diseases, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial and throat affections, accompained with catarrhal discharges, hoarseness, sore throat, lingering, or hang-on-coughs, and all those wasting affections which, if not promptly and properly treated are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is not likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. It will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

PRINCE DE SAGAN AND MME. GOULD.

Some little progress was made yesterday in the French-American wooing, when the Prince de Sagan left his apartments in the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, took luncheon with Mr. and Mrs. Tyler-Morse, at the St. Regis, and spent the afternoon there in company with Mm. Gould.

Whether the lovers considered between themselves the advisability of returning to Europe at once or of staying on a few days more in the hope that a final appeal to George Gould to sanction the marriage would be successful could not be learned. The report that they would be married within a month, in America, if George Gould consented, and in Europe if he did not, however, was confirmed. At 6 o'clock the whole party, consisting of the Prince de Sagan, Mme. Gould, Mr. and Mrs. Tyler-Morse, Isador Morse and a couple of friends, then drove over to the Hotel Gotham in three of the Morses' machines, where they had dinner.

It was said yesterday that the unsympathetic attitude of her family is causing Mme. Gould much distress. Not only is George Gould reported to have absolutely refused to consent to the marriage, but Helen Gould, at whose house Mme. Gould is stopping, has also indicated her displeasure so strongly that the relations between the two sisters have become quite formal. Partly as a result of this family opposition the Prince has seen Mme. Gould only three times since his arrival in America.

SHOOTS THREE WOMEN.

George Eells, aged 60 years, shot and instantly killed Mrs. Mary Andress, a neighbor, in the lower section of Philadelphia, last night, and probably fatally injured Ella Paschall, his alleged common-law wife, and Kate Jewel, a niece of Mrs. Andreas. Domestic troubles are said to have been responsible for the tragedy. Eells is a policeman with a record of 23 years' continuous service.

Mrs. Eells, or Miss Paschall, claimed recently that Eells had treated her cruelly, and a few days ago she left the house and went to stay with Mrs. Andreas. Eells did not like the interference in his domestic affairs, and is alleged to have declared he would clean out the Andreas house.

When his wife came out of the Andreas's house last night Eells, who had apparently awaited an opportunity, drew a revolver and shot her in the head, inflicting what the physicians say will prove a fatal wound. Mrs Andreas came out of the house when she heard the shot and received a bullet in the head from the irate man's revolver. She was killed instantly.

Kate Jewel, who also came upon the scene, attempted to escape, but was shot in the back of the head. It is said that she will also die. Eells was arrested immediately after the shooting by a brother officer. He said he was not sorry for what he had done.

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup acts gently yet promptly on the bowels and allays inflammation at the same time. It is pleasant to take. Sold by W. F. Creighton & Co.

KILLED BY HIS BROTHER.

Charles Wickliffe, one of the members of the notorious gang of Cherokee Indian outlaws long sought by the officers, was shot and killed at the Wickliffe home, in the Spavinaw, Cherokee Nation, Saturday, by his brother Thomas, the result of a family quarrel.

The Wickliffes were three in number, Thomas, Charles and John. They were full-blood Cherokees and were considered the most desperate gang of outlaws that has infested the southwest in years. Many murders are laid to them, and they were particularly sought for their attack near Kansas, Okla., on Sunday, March 11, 1905, upon a number of deputies who were attempting their arrest for murdering an officer.

The deputies overtook the trio in the fastnesses of Spavinaw county, a wild, mountainous district in the heart of the Cherokee Nation. A fierce battle ensued. Deputy Marshal Ike Gilstrap, of Vinita, an officer with a noted record, was killed and the outlaws escaped. The whole territory was aroused and for several weeks armed posses from all directions sought them.

Rheumatic Pains Relieved.

Can you believe your senses?

MONDAY EVENING. MAR. 30, 1908.

AS WAS stated in the Gazette, former Attorney General Bulkley Wells, of Colorado, narrowly escaped death last Saturday morning by being hurled from his bed by the explosion of a bomb which partially wrecked his home at Telluride. Mr. Wells is general manager of the Smuggler mines, and is recognized as a foe to the Western Federation of Miners. Mr. Wells took a leading part in the suppression of labor troubles in Colorado in 1904-05, and was prominently identified with the recent prosecution of Haywood and Pettibone, officers of the Western Federation of Miners, on the charge of complicity in the assassination of former Governor Frank Steunenberg. He had been active also in getting the extradition from Idaho of Steve Adams, who will be tried on charges of murder in connection with the miners' strike in 1904. While dispatches telling of this outrage were being received in newspaper offices in the country a red flag was fluttering in Union Square, New York. Later a bomb, intended for a squad of policemen, exploded in the hands of an assassin, terribly injuring him and killing his companion. The police had broken up a meeting of 10,000 unemployed and Sig Silverstein had provided himself with a bomb in order to wreak vengeance upon the conservators of the peace. The assassin and his companion fell, the latter dead, with his breast torn out. The bomb-thrower still lives, but his right hand had been shot off, both of his eyes were gouged out, and his skull and a shoulder were fractured. It looks as though violence was about to fill the earth as in the days before the flood.

IN A sweeping decision making permanent the injunction granted last August, Judge Thomas G. Jones, of the federal court of Alabama, on Saturday declared that acts which seek to prevent railroads from appealing to federal courts from State laws are unconstitutional. The decision also suspends most of the anti-railroad acts passed by the last State legislature, pending inquiry of the complaints of the railroads that they are confiscatory. Judge Jones declares that the question of State rights is not involved in the issue. "Life would be intolerable," he says, "in any government claiming to be at all free wherein the citizen had no redress against wrongs done by officials in the name of the State." The federal constitution, it is held, gives the federal courts express right to pass on such questions. Judge Jones's opinion, it is said, was written and in the hands of the printer when the Supreme Court of the United States rendered its opinion in the Minnesota case, which was similar to that in this State. In all essential details Judge Jones's opinion is similar to that rendered by Justice Peckham.

THE ill-effect of co-education were never brought out more strikingly than by the students of the Muncie (Ind.) High School last Friday. The seniors of that co-educational institution attacked a class party of the juniors and, during the work of devastation, severely injured two girls. After the police had restored tranquility in the parlors the aggrieved juniors sallied forth for vengeance, and succeeded in capturing a young woman, a senior, of course, whom they promptly tied to a tree and left to meditate in the cool of 2 a. m., March. Commenting upon this the New York Tribune says: "Thus we see how side-by-side instruction in algebra and history serves to dispel bashfulness, prevent false modesty and bring the adolescent sexes into frank, wholesome relations. Without co-education, mawkish sentiment would have restrained the hands of the Muncie youths and taken half the fun out of the episode.

ON the same day that President Roosevelt recommended the repeal of the duty on wood pulp as a means of putting some practical push into the campaign for forest preservation, Chairman Payne, of the ways and means committee, declared there would be no meddling with tariff rates until after the presidential election. Here is a situation of difficulty but Mr. Payne seems to have the whip hand. The President can only plead for repeal. If the Congress will not heed his appeal there is no remedy except at the hands of another Congress.

THE Pennsylvania Railroad Company is preparing for the coming presidential campaign. An order has been issued discharging all foreign laborers, replacing them with men who will vote the way they want them to next November.

GOVERNOR SWANSON has served notice on night riders that if they come into this State they will be prosecuted as common criminals. This is as it should be. Virginia is no place for such individuals.

JUSTICE LEVENTRITT has resigned his seat on the bench of the Supreme Court of New York because the salary, $17,500 was too small. Does he want the earth?

From Washington.

(Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.)

Washington, D. C., March 30.

The muzzle of a six-inch broadside gun on the battleship Missouri blew out during target practice at Magdalena bay Saturday. Nobody was hurt. This information was received at the Navy Department today in a telegram from Rear Admiral Evans, commander-in-chief of the fleet. It was stated that 140 inches of the gun was torn away, which makes more than half of the weapon destroyed, inasmuch as the bore was 240 inches in length. The possible reason for the accident is not stated. A board of inquiry has been appointed to investigate.

The contract for the erection of a new bureau of American republics was awarded by the governing board today to Norcross Brothers of Worcester, Mass. The firm made the lost of the twelve bids submitted. The amount was not made public. Work will begin at once and it is now planned to lay the corner stone in May before the adjournment of Congress. The fund for the building was established by Andrew Carnegie, who contributed $750,000 for the purpose. It will stand on the sight known as Vanness Park, near Continental Hall.

The erection by the nations of the world of a light house in honor of the memory of the late Commander Matthew F. Maury, of the U. S. navy, was advocated today by Representative Gordon, of Tennessee, before the House committee on interstate and foreign commerce.

It is reported that Thomas McCreery, who was accidentally shot by Congressman Heflin in Washington on Friday evening, will enter suit against Mr. Heflin for damages. Louis Lundy, the negro who was shot by Mr. Heflin, was released from the Emergency Hospital yesterday.

The President has received a telegram from Gloucester, Mass., protesting against the political activity of certain employes of the postoffice at that place. The President has referred the matter to the Postmaster General.

The Senate today passed a bill amending the revised statutes so as to better provide for the protection of life by requiring vessels to carry full complements of officers and men.

Mr. Carlin today introduced a bill in the House to provide for a suitable rifle range for small arms near Washington. It is proposed to have the range in Fairfax county, near old Camp Alger, and it is understood that the Secretary of War favors the bill.

Chairman Fowler has called a meeting of the House committee on banking and currency for Wednesday to consider the Aldrich bill. At that time it will probably be decided to held public hearings on the bill, to begin next week.

Speaker Cannon and House leaders forgot themselves today and inadvertually indulged in a fit of generosity. They informed Chairman Bartholdt, of the committee on public buildings and grounds that he may report a public building bill to the House, carrying a total of $20,000,000 instead of $15,000,000 as had been originally intended. This increase means that practically every State will get a piece of the "pork barrel."

By the passage today of the urgent deficiency bill which has already passed the House and which appropriates two million dollars for armor and armament of naval vessels continued employment of many working men in the various navy yards of the country is assured. Without this money it had been announced that large numbers of men would have had to be laid off until the beginning of the next fiscal year.

Mrs. Jennie Carroll and Mrs. Mabel H Lasear were each given pensions of $125 a month by a bill which passed the Senate this afternoon. They are the widows of Doctors Carroll and Lasear, who lost their lives while experimenting with yellow fever infected mosquitos.

An effort is being made by the Taft managers to force Governor Hughes to accept second place on the ticket with Taft. Hughes is not particularly in love with second place, but it is believed that he can be induced to accept it.

Sixtieth Congress.

Washington, Mar. 30.

SENATE.

John W. Stewart, appointed Senator from Vermont by the Governor of that State to succeed the late Senator Proctor, took the oath of office today. His credentials were presented and he was escorted to the desk by Senator Dillingham.

Despite his 83 years, which make him the oldest member of the Senate, he appeared quite as spry as some of the younger members.

The Senate passed a bill authorizing Indians having allotted lands to lease them for mining purposes. No lease may for a longer period than five years.

A urgent deficiency bill was passed. The chief item was an appropriation of $2,000,000 for the armor and armament of naval vessels already authorized.

Another was $50,000 for the mileage of contract surgeons in the army.

A bill authorizing the appointment of a deputy clerk to take charge of court records at Big Stone Gap, Va., was passed.

The Senate passed a bill appropriating $5,000 for William Radcliffe, a British subject, whose fish hatchery in Colorado, was destroyed by a mob in 1901.

HOUSE.

The first business in the House today was to receive from the Senate the Aldrich financial bill. For the time it was allowed to lie on the Speaker's table and the House, in committee on the whole, took up further consideration of the agriculture appropriation bill.

The District of Columbia apropriation bill, carrying an appropriation of $9,436,000, was reported to the House. One half this amount is to be borne by the general government, nearly a million less than the bill carried a year ago.

The diplomatic and consular appropriation bill, carrying a total of $3,520,283, for the expenses of the diplomatic and consular service, for the next fiscal year, was reported to the House by the committee on foreign affairs.

During the afternoon Speaker Cannon referres the Aldrich bill to the House committee on banking and currency for report.

THE JAMESTOWN GROUNDS.

The subcommittee of the committee on naval affairs, will report Tuesday in favor of the purchase of the site of the Jamestown Exposition on which to locate a coal depot and naval training station, and will commend Hampton Roads as a harbor and a point from which much of the naval activity of the government must emanate. The subcommittee will report two propositions, one recommending the purchase of the entire site of 320 acres for $960,000, and the other to buy only 225 acres, for which the price of $710,000 is to be paid, in each case the exposition company's debt of $800,000 to the government to be canceled.

News of the Day.

The 2,500 cotton operatives in Windham County Mills, at Plainfield, Conn., were put on a 10 per cent. reduction today.

Eleven persons were hurt and $35,000 loss caused by a fire which early today burned out two buildings of the Fort Hill district, Boston.

Two negroes were arrested in Washington, yesterday, charged with stealing $700 worth of jewelry from girl students of Mount Vernon Seminary.

It is announced from Berlin that Emperor William has withdrawn all expressions of disapproval and will be pleased to receive Dr. Hill as ambassador.

A dispatch from Hanna, Wyo., says hope was finally abandoned today of saving the lives of any of the 71 men entombed in the explosion-wrecked and still burning Hanna coal mine there.

But little progress was made in the House on Saturday in considering the agricultural appropriation bill. The discussion dwelt mainly upon the proposed establishment of federal standard of cotton grades and federal inspection of grains.

Rear Admiral Evans, commanding the Atlantic battleship fleet, is on his way from Magdalena bay to San Francisco, aboard the Connecticut. Arriving at San Francisco he will proceed at once to San Luis Obispo by rail, there to take treatment at a mineral spring resort.

Martin R. Turner, whose wife, Fannie C. Turner, on Thursday took a fatal dose of carbolic acid, committed suicide Friday night at his home in Martinsburg while the undertaker was preparing his wife's body for burial. Mrs. Turner's suicide was reported to have been due to her treatment by her husband.

With the positive statement Saturday of doctors who examined her that 15-year-old Lillian Thiery, found Friday in a lot near Glendale, L. I., had been not assaulted, the police declare the girl was murdered for the $4.50 she carried, her week's wages as a factory employe. They lay the crime to tramps, but have no clue. Lillian was found by a passing train crew Friday in the lot with her skull crushed.

William W. Trainor, thirty years old, a vaudeville actor, and Mrs. William Pryor, an actress, twenty-five years old, were found shot to death in apartments at the Clarendon Hotel in St. Paul, Minn. yesterday. It is believed that the actress was reminding Trainor that he had not lived up to promises he had made her and that she was threatening to leave him. This supposed quarrel and lack of money, the police believe, caused Trainor to shoot Mrs. Pryor and himself.

Archbishop John Ireland, of St. Paul, has written a letter to the clergy and laity of that archdiocese on the subject of marriage and divorce. The letter was read in all the churches of the archdiocese yesterday. Its occasion is the recent encyclical on marriage issued by Pope Pius X. The letter says, in part: "The cessation of the contract, the remarriage to another of husband or of wife, renders fatherless or motherless the children of the first marriage, dissipates in their souls the sanctity of the home. Divorce breaks up the home which God had intended as the sanctuary of love and safety for husband and for wife, for son and for daughter."

The bodies of Angelo and Tony Selvestire and Bernardo Dagannon were found yesterday each with a bullet in his breast, at Miller's Station, in Jefferson county, Ohio, across the river from Wheeling, W. Va., under circumstances which disclose a triple murder. The Selvestire brothers were found in a shanty in which they lived, and Dagannon in a field half a mile away, where he had died as he tried to climb a fence. The men were section hands, and together, with Rockey George lived in the shanty. The object of the murder was evidently robbery, as the men were known to have a large amount of money in their pockets, which were torn out. George has not been seen since the bodies were found, and officers have started a search for him.

The lives of seventy-two men were sacrificed Saturday afternoon, when two explosion of gas and dust in the No. 1 Mine of the Union Pacific Coal Company, near Hanna, Wyo., completely wrecked the workings, shattered the tipples and outside buildings, and rocked dwellings and business houses in town. But for the fact that this was an idle day at the mines the loss of life would have been something awful. The men were buried deep in the bowels of the earth, and two were burned to death by the fire now raging in the workings, if they were not killed outright by the explosion. The first explosion, which occurred at 3 o'clock, killed eighteen miners, including a superintendent and three bosses. The second explosion, at 10:30 Saturday night, snuffed out the lives of fifty or more rescuers, including State Mine Inspector D. M. Elie.

Mystery surrounds the death of Joseph W. Shannon, cashier of the Northwestern National Bank of Philadelphia, at the Stewart Hotel, San Francisco, during the night. Dr. Means, the attending physician, reported to the coroner that in his opinion Shannon died from an overdose of morphine.

CUT HIS THROAT.

William McFord, a former Boer scout, in the British South African war, was yesterday found in his apartment on Fort avenue, Baltimore, with his throat cut from ear to ear. Lying beside him on the bed was the body of his eighteen-months-old son. The room was full of gas from an open jet and between the father and the dead baby lay a razor covered with blood. On a mantel were two bottles partly filled with laudanum. It is believed the baby's death was caused by laudanum.

McFord's wife left him three weeks ago because he could not make a living for her.

McFord left two letters, one addressed to his wife, as follows: "Mrs. Mamie C. Ford, I don't know where."

The other letter was addressed to the public, and, according to Coroner Reinhardt, contained evidence upon which to convict the man of killing his son should he recover, which is doubtful, as he was at the University Hospital last night in a critical condition.

McFord's wife after leaving her husband went to Philadelphia, where she obtained employment in a confectionery store.

Mr. John, Riha, of Vining, Ia., says: "I have been selling DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills for about a year and they give better satisfaction than any pill I ever sold. I have used them myself with fine results." Sold by W. F. Creighton & Co.

Gillette Electrocuted.

Auburn, N. Y., Mar. 30.—Chester E. Gillette died in the electric chair in Auburn prison at 6:20 this morning after having confessed to Rev. Henry McIlravy and Chaplain Herrick, in almost his last breath, that he murdered Grace Brown, his factory sweetheart, for whose death he paid the extreme penalty.

It is understood that the confession, which was oral, practically bears out the contentions made by the prosecution in his trial.

McIlravy would not give out the details of his confession, but did give to the United Press Gillette's final message, as follows:

"Tell mother that I am prepared to meet my God and that not a single act now stands between me and Him. Tell her that I have no hard feelings against any one, and I am very sorry for the pain and anguish that I have brought upon her and others."

Gillette entered the death house at 6:12 o'clock. He was attended by Rev. McIlravy and Chaplain Herrick who recited the twenty-third Psalm.

Gillette walked quietly and went to his death without a quiver. Only one contact was necessary before Dr. John Gerin, the prison physician, pronounced him dead.

At 6:14 the electrician, E. F. Davis, threw on the switch sending the current through the youth's body. The first contact was a current of 1,800 volts, 7½ amperes, held for thirty seconds, and gradually reduced to a voltage of 200, and again increased to 1,800 volts until the end of one minute, when turned off.

When Chester Gillette entered the death house his face was ashen, but he showed no signs of emotion. He walked unassisted and stepped merrily to the chair and took his seat. He took care to place his hands on the right places, and settled down as if he found the seat comfortable. He did not open his mouth or make any effort to speak. His eyes were wide open and he looked about him noticing the men carefully as they fixed the straps.

After the cap went down over his head, covering his eyes, he made no motion.

The only sound beside the soft purring of the death-dealing electrical machine was the measured tone of the chaplain as he read the Psalm.

Gillette last night prepared the following statement to be given out today by the warden:

"In the shadow of the valley of death it is my desire to do everything that would remove any doubt as to my having found Jesus Christ, the personal Saviour and unfailing friend. My one regret at this time is that I have not given Him the pre-eminence in my life while I had the opportunity to work for Him. If I could only say some one thing that would draw young men to Him I would deem it the greatest privilege ever granted me. But all I can say is that I know in whom I have believed and am persuaded that He is able to keep that which I have committed unto Him against that day. If the young men of this country could only know the joy and measure of a christian life, I know they would do all in their power to become earnest, active christians and would strive to live as Christ would have them live. Not one thing have I left undone which will bar me facing Christ, knowing that my sins are forgiven, for I have been free and frank in my talks with my spiritual adviser and God knows where I stand. My task is done; the victory won."

CHESTER E. GILLETTE.

During the execution the father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Gillette, with Chester's two sisters and brother, were at the Salvation Army headquarters where they were received a month ago, after they had been turned away from the doors of local boarding houses. Gillette's mother looked like a ghost. When the last flickering hope died she collapsed utterly and the services of a physician were required. For a time it was feared her heart had failed.

As the time approached when they knew the execution would take place they gathered in the mother's room. Mrs. Gillette held tightly clasped to her heart the plain little Bible, Chester's last gift to her—the book from which he drew the faith that is the only balm to her torn heart. She prayed silently with burning eyes to which tears long since had ceased to come.

The consumptive father's usually hard countenance seemed distorted and he sat with one arm about his wife and the other embracing the heads of three children who knelt at his feet their faces hidden. Each held the book which Chester gave at the last meeting yesterday.

Miss Ferrin, the 19-year-old girl who knew Chester when he attended Oberlin College in Ohio and who is the only person outside the family ever admitted to his cell, wept bitterly with head buried on the shoulder of Miss Catherine Gillette.

Captain Robertson, of the Salvation Army, entered the room and said. "It's over."

Mrs. Gillette gave a sharp cry that sounded as if it grated in her dry throat, and fell forward on her husband's lap. No one else moved.

One of Gillette's last acts, was to defend the memory of Grace Brown, the sweetheart he murdered. He was told last week of the fight his mother was making before Gov. Hughes for a reprieve. When the story of Dow Sanderson, the "mysterious witness," who attempted to blacken the girl character, was told him Gillette exclaimed. "Gentleman, that is a lie—it is false, all of it. Grace Brown was a pure girl and always had been. That story is untrue."

Chester Gillette's brain was sealed in a tin pail and taken out of the prison by Dr. Spitzka, of the Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia. After the brain was removed it was found that the frontal lobes were under-developed. The brain was large, weighing 57½ ounces. The autopsy showed the organs to be practically normal.

Mrs. Gillette in a statement today said: "I am so thankful that Chester did not strike the girl, as claimed by the prosecution. A full account of what he said to his spiritual advisors will never be given out, but I can say before my God that he did not strike Grace Brown."

GILLETTE'S CRIME.

The crime for which Chester Gillette was convicted was one of the most brutal in the history of New York State. The body of his sweetheart, Grace, or as she was better known, "Billy" Brown, was found in Big Moose Lake on July 11, 1906, and marks on her body indicated that she had been murdered. Gillette was arrested three days later on the charge of murder, he having been seen with the girl a short time before her disappearance. His trial began at Herkimer, N. Y., November 19, 1906, and he was pronounced guilty December 5 of the same year. He was sentenced to be electrocuted on January 14, 1907, but he got a stay following an appeal. On January 8 of this year the case was argued and the court affirmed the judgment of conviction.

Gillette and Grace Brown became acquainted shortly after Gillette accepted the position as foreman in his uncle's factory in Cortland, N. Y. The girl, who was the daughter of a farmer of South Otselic, was employed in the factory. They soon became engaged, and Grace had had her wedding dress made. Then it is said Gillette's love for the girl began to cool, and he delayed the wedding on one pretext or another in spite of his sweetheart's plea that they be married quickly.

The prosecution during Gillette's trial charged that Gillette had been captured by the pretty face of another girl and had become engaged to her.

It was during this time Grace, or "Billy," Brown wrote the letters which were a feature of Gillette's trial, pleading with him to keep his promise of marriage. They explained the cause of her anxiety and told in heart rending terms the wooing and final abandonment of the girl. There was nothing of reproach in them. They were womanly and simple, yet eloquent. Day after day she pleaded with him, and when his replies appeared cold she would appeal to his manhood and then in the next sentence ask his pardon for seeming to chide him. When these letters were read in court they aroused intense feeling against Gillette and pity for the girl.

Moved finally by his promised wife's pleadings, Gillette agreed to take her away from her home.

Gillette and the girl left home together on July 11 and went to Big Moose Lake, in the Adrondacks, where they were registered at a hotel. Soon after registering they went for a boat ride, and from that ride Grace Brown never returned alive. When the boat was found overturned it was at first supposed that both its occupants had been drowned. Grace Brown's body was recovered without difficulty. Later it was learned that Gillette had been seen hurrying through the woods.

Gillette's explanation was that Grace Brown had jumped from the boat for the purpose of committing suicide, and that when he reached out his hand to her the boat overturned and he fell into the water. On the stand Gillette calmly admitted that while he was such an expert swimmer that he ventured without fear into large lakes and even into the ocean, he made no effort to save Grace Brown, but swam to the shore and hurried away. The tennis racquet, which the prosecution contended that Gillette used to kill the girl before drowning her, was found hidden in the woods after a long search.

Doctors have testified that Grace Brown was either killed by blows or stunned before she was thrown into the water.

Gillette was 23 years old at the time of the murder, while Grace Brown was but 20.

Mysterious Deaths.

Cleveland, O., Mar. 30.—The bodies of a man and woman were found in a pasture at Ceventry Road, in a fashionable suburb early today. Both had been shot through the heart. There is evidence that the woman shot the man and then committed suicide. A post card found on the woman was addressed to Miss Zeichman, Mayflower School. Down in the left hand corner of the card was written "Marie L." In the man's pocket was a telephone receipt to Carl Bernthaler, 1736 east 23rd street. At that address it was found that Carl Bernthaler had been missing since Sunday. He had gone for a walk on Cedar Heights and when he did not return Mrs. Bernthaler went out to look for him, but found no trace of him. At the home of Miss Lena Zeichman it was said that she had been missing since Sunday at 3 p. m. Members of the families said Miss Zeichmann and Bernthaler had been friends many years, having been classmates in Central High School. Latter she took music lessons of Bernthaler. She took a lesson at his home Saturday afternoon. A working man passing the field discovered the bodies and notified Marshal Brockway. Failure to find any trace after a thorough search for the weapon throws a shade of mystery about the affair and leads some to believe that they were murdered.

Alarming Condition in Hayti.

Port au Prince, Mar. 30.—Hayti is again in an alarming condition. The legations and consulates, which had been nearly cleared of refugees after weeks of delay, are once more swarming with fugitives from the government's vengeance.

The palace guard is doubled, the streets swarm with soldiers; scores of arrests have been made and the diplomatic residences are closely watched to prevent more suspected anti-government conspirators from seaching them.

President Nordaleix believes the report by Gen. Jules Coicou, head of the Port au Prince Prince Military District, that another uprising is imminent, and is striking heroic measures to suppress it.

Coicou's charge that French Minister Carteron is concerned in the plot makes foreigners' position critical and the feeling against them is strong.

Dr. Hill Acceptable.

Berlin, Mar. 30.—The Mittagzertung says today: "The German government has ordered Ambassador Sternburg to make it clear to Washington that the kaiser never objected to Dr. Hill." The paper says the trouble originated from Minister Power from a misleading communication to the State Department.

As matters stand, there seems to be nothing to prevent Dr. Hill from going to Berlin as soon as Ambassador Tower retires. Still, there is a good deal of wondering whether he will accept a place over which there has been so disagreeable a squabble. It is agreed everywhere that the doctor has behaved with great dignity during the entire controversy.

New York Stock Market.

New York, March 30.—The price movements in the first hour were irregular and apparently but of little importance, some stocks making fractional advances and others recording slight losses on scanty trading. It was distinctly a professional market. A generally heavy tone developed in the latter part of the fore noon.

Berkman Arrested.

New York, Mar. 30.—Alexander Berkman, who served a long prison term for trying to kill H. C. Frick, afterward figured as Emma Goldman's common law husband and is probably the best known anarchist in America, was arrested as a suspicious person today in connection with the bomb throwing by Selig Silverstein in Union Square Saturday. In Silverstein's pocket a card of the "anarchists federated union" was found, bearing Berkman's signature.

The object of his arrest is to ascertain whether or not he was engaged in the dynamite explosion in Union Square last Saturday.

Silverstein, at Bellevue Hospital, is gaining strength and will probably live, though he will be blind and crippled. "I am only sorry I did not kill all the police," is all he will say.

His work has been repudiated not alone by Berkman, but by Emma Goldman in an interview telegraphed from Minneapolis, by the committee of the unemployed who were trying to hold a meeting in Union Square when the bomb was dropped, and by the general committee of the socialist party.

Attempted Suicide.

Buffalo, N. Y., Mar. 30.—After making arrangements for the cremation of a body at the City Crematory in west Delaware avenue and also for the construction of a monument over a grave at Lockport, N. Y., Melvin A. Root, of Bay City, Mich., shot himself on the steps of the crematory today. Shortly before noon Root alighted from a car at Linwood and west Delaware avenues and walking to the crematory sat down on the steps, calmly took a revolver from his hip pocket, placed the muzzle to his right temple and pulled three times. Root fell prostrate on the walk. He was taken to the hospital where it is said his chance for recovery are slim.

Bank Reopened.

Paris, Mar. 30.—Henri Rochette's Franco-Spanish Bank and Credit Miner reopened today, their officers declaring them absolutely solvent and able to meet all claims. Rochette himself remains in prison pending an investigation of his other ventures, twenty in all, of which several are still seriously compromised. The financier asserts, however, that he will have no trouble in protecting the interests of all investors and the resumption of his two big banking investments has unquestionably done much to restore public confidence in him.

D., dean of the Law School; S B. Moore, M. D., dean of the Medical School; G. Riegel, D. D, and I. Livermore, M. D., vice-presidents; and W. J. Cawthon, esq., financial director. Messrs. Porter, Brodthage, and Cawthon are residents of Washington, the other officers—with the exception of Messrs. Reigal (Rochester, N. Y.), and Livermore (Gowands, N. Y.),—are residents of Alexandria.

MESSENGER MURDERED.

Two robbers early yesterday murdered O. A. Bailey, of Kansas City, an express messenger of the Well-Fargo Express Company, on a westbound Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe train, between Florence and Newton, Kan., robbed both the express safes, taking at least $1,000 and some jewelry, and escaped. The body of Messenger Bailey was found on the floor of the express car when the train reached Newton. The back of his skull was crushed and the end of the car spattered with blood. There was no evidence of any struggle. The indications are that the murder was committed while the messenger was asleep. Bailey was last seen alive at Strong City. After slaying the messenger, the robbers covered his head with his coat, took the safe keys from the messenger's pockets, and ransacked the safes. Then the keys were put into Bailey's overcoat, and the coat was folded and put in his grip, where it was found later.

He was forty years old and leaves a widow and two children.

Gov. Col. Maurice S. Langhorne died at midnight Saturday night, in Lynchburg, after being ill for some weeks. He had just passed his eighty-fifth birthday. Prior to the civil war Col. In September, 1861, he was commissioned a major in the Eleventh Virginia. Six months later he was made lieutenant colonel, and was severely wounded at Seven Pines. Shortly after this he was made colonel of his regiment. His wound prevented further active service.

ALEXANDRIA TO THE FRONT.

In Saturday's issue, under the above heading, attention was called to the need or necessity of the city doing what merchants and manufacturers do, and that is to advertise. In this article we sought to impress what harmony of purpose has accomplished at High Point, N. C., by saying there were over sixty wood-working plants in that thrifty little city that had no place on the map until after the war. The compositor evidently thought sixty furniture factories too many for one town, and dropped the "ty," making the number six, quite a difference from the reality.

Alexandria has advantages over High Point, or any other interior place in the South. High Point has one railroad, and no water transportation. Cars filled with furniture made at High Point have passed through Alexandria within the last month. That town prospers despite the fact that there is only one way of getting in and out. The success attained at High Point and other places in the South no better located, should animate Alexandria. The Gazette through a special edition is preparing to show that our city has more than mere historic sights and associations to attract people. We have transportation, manufacturing mercantile and residential advantages, and in showing them to the world we ask our citizens to help.

FUNERALS.

The funeral of the late Isaac Studds took place yesterday afternoon from his home, 719 Gibbon street. Rev. Edgar Carpenter, rector of Grace Church, conducted the services, and the interment was made in Bethel Cemetery. The pallbearers were employees of the public buildings and grounds in Washington.

Colonel James R. Caton, of Alexandria, left yesterday afternoon for home, after packing up all his books and papers accumulated during the sessions of the general assembly. Colonel Caton was asked if he expected to be a candidate for the position of lieutenant-governor at the election next year. "Well, it is a long time off and I am not prepared to say at this time," he replied. He intimated very strongly, however, that the chances are that he will enter the race, conditioned solely on the state of his health.—[Richmond News Leader.

SOUTHERN METHODISTS.

An address, lasting for five hours, was delivered by Judge Newman, of Woodstock, Saturday in Roanoke before the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Church South, in favor of allowing the aged professors of the Randolph-Macon system of colleges to accept the Carnegie pension. At the conclusion of his address the conference adopted a ten-minute limit governing all speakers not presidents of the various colleges involved. Discussion of the question was continued until Monday.

Following Judge Newman in addresses limited to ten minutes were a number of members of the conference.

Dr. Blackwell disclaimed any idea on the part of the college or of its trustees to toss away the vested rights of those institutions. He believed that the acceptance of the fund for the aged professors of these institutions was right and proper.

The discussion was resumed today. The conference may adjourn Wednesday.

After the sermon yesterday Bishop Nelson ordained its deacons Rev. A. Knox and J. Lester Dulaney.

MONDAY EVENING, MAR. 30, 1908.

The New Judge's Notes.

Chief Justice Falconbridge of Ontario, Mr. Justice Britton and Mr. Justice Riddell, a newly appointed judge, were sitting together as a court in Toronto. According to some legalists who were present, the presentation of argument on behalf of one of the clients was rather prolix and not very much to the point, to put it mildly. Mr. Justice Riddell, who, by the way, was not to the same extent inured against the tediousness of the proceedings as were his colleagues, was observed to pass one of them a slip of paper, on which presumably were written some notes on the case. Immediately the "notes" were read, however, by his colleagues there was a subdued suggestion of mirth apparent on their part. It turned out that the "notes" read after this fashion:

THE "NOTES."

(With apologies to Mr. Rudyard Kipling.)

"'Oo is it makes that bloomin' noise?"
Asked Files-on-Parade.
"It's counsel's openin' argument,"
The color-sergeant said.
"'Oo 'as to 'ear the bally stuff?"
Asked Files-on-Parade.
"The chief and his two hired men,"
The color sergeant said.

"For he doesn't know his law, he misrepresents the facts;
His logic is so rotten you can see through all the cracks,
And he's pretty sure to get it where the chicken got the ax,
When the court delivers judgment in the morning."

—Cleveland Leader.

A Boomerang Contract.

The author of "A Temperance Town" and "A Texas Steer" spent much of his time in his country home, but one day he appeared unexpectedly in New York at the Lambs' club. Going straight to the cafe, he made one large, inclusive gesture, which brought every man present about him. "It's on me," said Mr. Hoyt. Then he told his story.

It was before the days of electric and gasoline motors, and he had bought a little steam yacht. He engaged as his engineer one of his Yankee neighbors and offered him liberal wages, with the provision that the engineer should find his own coal. It was a long way to the nearest coal yard, and Mr. Hoyt had all the trouble he was looking for to keep his own furnace fed.

"But where shall I get the coal?" the new engineer asked.

"I don't care," said the foremost of American stage humorists. "Steal it."

So the bargain was struck. All went well until in the early autumn Mr. Hoyt went into his cellar to see how much more coal he would have to purchase for the winter. Of several tons on hand in the spring only two or three scuttlefuls remained. The theft was speedily traced to the engineer.—Saturday Evening Post.

The Sun and the Telescope.

The popular notion is that the astronomer points his telescope directly at the sun and fires his vision point blank across the chasm of millions of miles. Instead, says a writer in the Ohio Magazine, the errant sun rays are lassoed by a coelestate—a great circular mirror driven by clockwork in such a manner that it throws its light into another mirror above, and this in turn sends the long, concentrated beam far into the interior of the telescope house. The two mirrors move in automatic adjustment to each other, so that the solar beams may be shot into the building, no matter in what portion of the sky the sun may be situated. At the farther end of the building the reflected sunbeam strikes a concave mirror which catches the light and, flashing it back toward the opening whence it first entered, focuses it into a perfect image of the sun.

Female Diamonds.

The jeweler held a magnifying glass to a superb white diamond.

"Do you see those little diamonds on the farther edge?" he said. "They are invisible to the naked eye, but the glass shows them quite plainly, doesn't it? Well, they are the proof that this diamond is a female; hence we say that there are male and female diamonds, the males, of course, being those that don't produce these growths.

"Female diamonds are always the finest. In fact, nearly all the diamonds of wide world fame are females."—New York Press.

Society of the Cincinnati.

The Society of the Cincinnati was an order established by the officers of the Revolutionary army in 1783 to perpetuate their friendship and to raise funds for the relief of the widows and orphans of those who had fallen during the war. It was so named because it included patriots headed by Washington, between whom and the old Roman farmer-general, Cincinnatus, there were supposed to be many resemblances.

"Evolution, my son, is a sort of apology which man has invented for displaying so many of the traits of the lower animals."—Washington Star.
